News from New York

Last December 2006 representatives of the architects, the contractors as well as RPG from the USA visited our plant to initiate the manufacture of the wall and ceiling panelling for the auditorium in TheTimesCenter. This new state-of-the-art cultural center and performance space is located in The New York Times Building, designed by acclaimed architect Renzo Piano in the heart of The Times Square. The opening took place end of September 2007, and recently we received first photographs from New York. The auditorium was realized in AMERICAN CHERRY panels with edgebanding in massive wood and returns to achieve the most attractive depth effect.

News from Warschau

Because of our request concerning photographs for the TOPAKUSTIK – TOPPERFO brochure 2008, our distribution partner from Poland, the company Rematec, sent us a couple of photographs of their projects. Thank you Waldemar Mikulski and Piotr Koszowski. May we ask all our distribution partners and agents to send us photographs for the new brochure!

PS:

At the moment an extensive exhibition with the topic Bernese Pioneer Esprit takes place in the Historic Museum in Bern. Besides the chocolate Toblerone and the painter Paul Klee, the Formula One racing driver Jo Siffert and the theoretical physicist Albert Einstein, all of them unique individuals related to Bern, for example Albert Einstein lived 15 years in Bern, our co-worker Roland Winterberger is mentioned in the exhibition because he was the first father of quins in Switzerland. In 1975 his wife gave birth to three girls and two boys.
